EVANS CANNOT BE RETAINED

ALL EFFORTS TO THAT END ARE FRUITLESS.

A SPECIAL MEETING

Was Held For the Purpose of Discussing Ways and Means.

The School Trustees and Commercial Club directors met in joint session last Monday night, at a called meeting in the store room of Cochran & Pickens' hardware store for the purpose of discussing ways and means for retaining Prof. Evans in charge of Marion Graded Schools. It is to be regretted that the difficulties, principally financial, were found to be insurmountable in the face of the present limited resources of the city with the added burden of recent fire. It would have been necessary to raise additional funds by private subscription, to meet the increased expenses made necessary to retain the services of Prof. Evans, and conducting the schools on the lines desired by him. One of his stipulations was the provision of funds for the employment of an assistant High School teacher.

A full attendance of both boards was present, with the exception of the school trustees, and the matter was discussed at great length, exhausting all avenues of a possible increase of revenue with a hope of retaining Prof. Evans as Principal of Marion's schools.

The regrets on account of his leaving Marion will be universal, from the pupil in the first grade to the high school graduate, from the humblest home to the abode of those favored by fortune, from the most unpretentious citizen to the city fathers, and finally but not the least important, including Prof. Evans himself, who has very aptly expressed his feeling, "I desire to leave a good taste in the mouths and a warm feeling in the hearts of all, in order that he may be taken back, when, like the prodigal son, he wanders home."

Mr. Evans' is making active preparations to leave in August for Ardmore, I. T., where he expects to assume his new duties in charge of the schools there, and where he will make his future home until the opening for "His Old Kentucky Home," becomes too strong to longer resist the temptation to resume his charge of Marion's schools, one of the boasts of the people of this entire section of the State, and the greatest pride of parents and citizens of this city.

He leaves in his wake a chasm broad, No less than the one he seeks to fill; And a successful effort to breach this void Comes not alone from the "Dollar Bill."

In the far off west, the place where he goes, Seeking the vigor of health which his nature requires, May the people appreciate as Old Crittenden does The true worth of the mind and glad spirit we lose.

In the Law of Nature, that of full recompense, We receive as we give, but increased many fold, May the portion be of ourselves and our friend A blessing disguised in his return to the fold.

Rev. Oakley Celebrates His Birthday.

A bountiful repast at the noon hour and a good time in general was enjoyed by a number of guests at the home of Rev. W. T. Oakley on his forty-first birthday Thursday, May 18th. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Deboe, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Deboe and daughter, W. H. Walker and J. M. McCaslin.

QUARTERLY COURT

A Number of Interesting Cases Tried.

A few cases were disposed of in the quarterly court Monday. The case of Funkhouse vs. Hardesty was tried. The plaintiff, Clint Funkhouse charged the defendant, Luther Hardesty, with taking up and selling a calf belonging to plaintiff, and prayed the court to grant the value of the calf and damages. The case was tried before a jury which awarded plaintiff the value of the calf and $10 damages. Defendant was represented by J. W. Hine and plaintiff by A. C. Moore. Attorney Blue appeared before court Tuesday and made motion to set aside verdict. It was granted and suspension ordered for call to be brought in next term of court.

In the case Sisco vs. Driskill it appeared that Geo. Sisco was indebted to Dr. A. J. Driskill and others in the city, and had signed to Driskill, who was then a member of the Marion Hardware Co., a wheat drill. Driskill was to sell drill, from the proceeds of which he was to withhold Sisco's indebtedness to himself and others after which balance, if any, should be paid Sisco. Drill was stored in warehouse of Marion Hardware Co., and was destroyed by the fire that visited the city March 28. Sisco sued to recover value of drill less his indebtedness to Driskill. The case was called Monday but continued to Tuesday when it was tried before jury. The jury hung and the case was continued to next term of court. The plaintiff was represented by Attorney Jas. A. Moore and the defendant by L. H. James.

Friday James Ross was tried before Judge Towery charged with failure to work county road. Ross was not present at the trial on account of sickness in the family, but on Saturday appeared before the court with a plea for failure to work the road and asked for new hearing which the court declined to grant.

Peter Holloman was tried Wednesday in Towery's court charged with failure to work the road. Holloman presented a certificate of release from the fiscal court and fought the case on plea of disability. He was fined the usual penalty.

Pickens & Cavender rented warehouse in rear of Carnahan building to Jas. Paris and Tom Wring on verbal contract to be occupied by them as shoe shop and sewing machine storage. Messrs Wring and Paris subrented a part of the warehouse to be occupied as a saloon without the knowledge or consent of Cavender & Pickens. The proprietor of the saloon was asked to vacate and the case was tried under a writ of forcible detainer before Judge Towery last Saturday. Judge Towery sustained the subcontract and held it legal regardless of the wishes of the owners of the property.

COUNTY TICKET

To Be Named By Republicans in Livingston.

The Republican county committee of this county met at the court house here last Monday, May 15, and called a mass convention of the Republican party of this county to meet at Smithland on Tuesday, August 1st, for the purpose of nominating a county ticket to be voted for at the November election. No action was taken in regard to the legislative race.

Chairman H. C. McCord said to a reporter for the Democrat, "We did not resolve any, or jump on you Democrats; we propose to give you a clean, honest fight." W. D. Bishop and J. J. Chittenden, two deacons in the Republican church, smiled pleasantly at Chairman McCord's remarks.—Livingston Democrat.

THE PROPOSED COUNTY FAIR

FOR CRITTENDEN AND LIVINGSTON JOINTLY

TO BE HELD AT SALEM

Crittenden County Commercial Club Takes Action in the Matter.

Do the people of Crittenden county want a fair? This question is put to them for their serious consideration. The movement has been started, and can be made a success if the people of the two counties want it.

Tuesday night, at its regular meeting, the commercial club devoted its entire time and attention to just two subjects which are of great importance to the people of this district, viz a bi-county fair and a Good Roads convention.

Mr. J. R. Faris, chairman of the Livingston county fair committee was present and explained that the people of his county had not as yet taken any definite steps to hold a fair, either alone or jointly, but that they were eager to act in conjunction with Crittenden county in the matter, and meet them half way.

The Livingston county fair committee, appointed on May 18 by President J. N. McGrew, at a meeting of the Farmers' club at Salem held on that day, consists of J. R. Faris, chairman; Thos. M. George, J. O. Gray, J. R. Moreland, Albert Butler, M. F. Robinson and J. R. Sumners. President Cochran, of the Crittenden County Commercial club, named as a permanent committee to act with the Livingston county committee.

C. H. Whitehouse, chairman, Jno. W. Blue, C. S. Nunn, J. Frank Conner, E. L. Nunn, J. B. Carter, Al Dean and J. L. Clement.

These two committees are to act jointly on all matters pertaining to the proposed fair, and will hold their meetings at Salem. The first meeting has been called to be held at Salem Saturday, June 3, at 2 p. m., and all committeemen are requested to be in attendance if possible. Ways and means will be devised to hold the fair at such time as may be mutually decided upon.

One thing is practically assured, however, and that is that a fair, if held at all, will be on a high plane, with the exhibit features as the prime motive.

Mr. Clem S. Nunn abounded the proper keynote, which met with a hearty approval, in a short talk before the club members. He said that the only really successful institutions of the kind were held for exhibition purposes primarily, and not for the purpose of encouraging the gambling and horse racing spirit and cultivating the lawless element.

NOTICE

We will gladly furnish space in our columns for discussion of the question: "Should we, or should we not have a bi-county fair?" We would also be pleased to give publicity to suggestions from citizens regarding needed improvements in the county or the city of Marion. Address communications to The Crittenden Record Marion - Kentucky either in our midst or from other districts or states. He further said that our agricultural, stockraising and mineral resources would enable us to build up a successful and permanent fair association which would be of great interest and benefit to the two counties.

The exhibits of these two counties at the St. Louis exposition were a revelation even to the people of this community who are more or less familiar with the products and resources of this section.

While Crittenden county carried off high honors with her mineral exhibits, Livingston county was second to none in her agricultural exhibits.

It will surprise every one not familiar with the facts to know that Livingston county received fifteen awards, more than any other county in the state with the single exception of Fayette county, on agricultural products. It must be remembered, however, that Fayette county has state experimental station, which, if eliminated from the contest, gives first place to Livingston county in agricultural exhibits from this state.

The mineral resources of Crittenden county are becoming known to the world, and with proper development, Livingston county can also share in this line of industry.

Now, with this abundance of wealth, in agriculture and minerals, with the great adaptability of the two counties for stock raising, why can't the people answer favorably the question which heads this article?

A postal card addressed to either of the two chairmen of the fair committees, will soon settle all argument. This much is requested of the head of every family in the two counties. Don't delay the matter or fail to write a postal or letter at once, as the date of next meeting is close at hand and your fair committees should know how to act, either favorably or otherwise, and a failure of the people to respond will be considered an unfavorable opinion concerning the movement. By all means write your committees, either approving or disapproving the proposed bi-county fair. Notice through the columns of county papers will be given from time to time as the movement progresses, or die through lack of interest displayed.

The subject of good roads is just as deserving of lengthy and favorable mention, and is in fact inseparable from the success of the fair movement, but it will receive attention in a future issue. Suffice it to say for the present that the matter is in good hands and will be pushed with all possible energy to beneficial results. Do you know that Crittenden and Livingston are, in embryo, two of the foremost counties in the state in mineral and agricultural resources, and can be placed first if the proper effort is made? Do you want the fair? Please write your committee and answer these two questions.

HAYNES & TAYLOR

Purchase a $2,000 Innovation Soda Fountain.

Haynes & Taylor bought of American Soda Fountain Co., of Boston, Mass., Tuesday, a $2,000 Innovation Soda Fountain. This Fountain is the only radical change which has been made in soda fountains for the past 75 years. The Innovation is an apparatus combining beauty, sanitation and convenience. The syrup is drawn from the counter out of porcelain jars instead of the old time metal containers of the wall apparatus. Back of the counter appears the superstructure of French bevel plate mirrors supported by onyx pilasters and oriental lights with leaded glass. The wood top is a beautiful white enameled effect laid in gold which makes a pleasant contrast and stimulates the brain as well as tickles the palate.

The purchase of such a fountain by this firm is in keeping with the progressive spirit of our city. When this fountain is installed Haynes & Taylor will have an eye-opening and give conveniences to all ladies in attendance. The American Soda Fountain Co., is the largest manufacturers of fountains in the world and Louisville, Lexington and Covington are the only cities in this State that have this type of fountain installed.

REUNION OF "FORTYNINERS"

A GATHERING OF VETERANS OF THE PLAINS.

INTERESTING STORIES

Are Told of the Early Gold Days West of the Rocky Mountains.

Wednesday was a bright pleasant day and with the beginning of the day there was clustered around the entrance to the New Marion Hotel a small bunch of men with snow white hair and frosty beard. There were ten in all and it represented almost all of those who survived of the many who crossed the western plains from 1849 to 1852 to seek a fortune in the California gold fields, and who at this time reside within fifty miles of Marion. They have a little organization which they call "The Fortyniners" and they had met here to hold their annual reunion. After spending the forenoon in viewing what the recent fire left of our little city, and making inquiries one of the other of some friend of the plains and calling up incidents of the plains they then followed their chairman and historian Jno. Montgomery of Providence in the dining room of the New Marion where with a few invited guests they partook of a bountiful repast.

After the noon hour they met in session to reorganize and Montgomery was re-elected chairman. Time was then devoted to the calling up of events of the plains, and Rev. Jas. F. Price of this city one of the guests was called upon to read Montgomery's history of the trip across the plains. When he had about concluded, a little boy pushed forward with a note from County Clerk C. E. Welton and Editor Jas. E. Chittenden of the Record asking the veterans to adjourn to the court house lawn where citizens had provided seats, and lemonade and cigars were awaiting them. This invitation was accepted and they proceeded to the lawn where the reunion for this year was concluded.

The names of the pioneers together with their age and place of residence is as follows:

John Montgomery, 72, Providence, Robt H. Nunn, 73, Owensboro. Jas. R. Station, 79, Carversville. Geo. M. Cash, 78, Kuttawa. Marcus Dunkerson, 73, Lisman. Judge J. F. Ingram, 70, Princeton. D. L. Ryan, 72, Mariou. Jas. A. Trimble, 70, Carversville. Thos. Robinson, 76, Lola. R. J. Spratt, 81, Princeton.

The guests were: Rev. Jas. F. Price and Mrs. E. H. Hallock, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Kevill, and daughter Miss Rosa, and J. P. Price.

The various parties that crossed the great plains and the great mountains from the Mississippi valley to California from 1849 to 1852, made the trip in about six months, ranging from six months one to six months six days. The parties making this journey consisted of from ten to twenty-five in each party; now not more than three or any one of these parties survives.

Milton Black, one of the California pioneers who lived at Mt. Vernon, Ind., died April 29, 1905, aged 96 years.

Letters were read from a few absent pioneers, expressing their regrets for absence.

After the meeting was over the following note of thanks was given for publication:

"We wish to thank the citizens of Marion for the interest they have manifested in this meeting together of the 'fortyniners,' and especially do we feel gratified for the many little courtesies shown us. Hoping we may meet in Marion again, in behalf of my fellow pioneers and myself I thank you. Respectfully, JOHN MONTGOMERY, 'President.'"

AT HIGH NOON

Wednesday, June 7, W. O. Tucker and Miss Nar Nell Nunn will Wed.

The invitations of the coming wedding of Miss Nar Nell Nunn, daughter of Appellate Judge Nunn, of Frankfort and William Oliver Tucker the popular young furniture dealer of this city, are out. The vows will be solemnized in the Methodist church at Frankfort at the hour of high noon Wednesday June 7th.

Messrs. Jno. Nunn, brother of the bride to be and W. D. Baird the popular proprietor of the new Marion Hotel are the best men, and on Sunday preceding the crowning event will leave this city together with the groom to be for Frankfort.

Mr. Tucker's friends have already been showering the congratulations upon him, but incidentally the following conversation between two philosophers while seated at Haynes & Taylor's Soda Fountain drinking Coca Cola was overheard. The conversation occurred concerning the large circular board posters containing a wedding scene advertising Nunn & Tucker's Furniture business.

"What means the large stout board signs with the bride (bridal) scene that are found on each of the six roads leading to Marion?" said the first speaker. "That reminds me" said the other, "Nunn & Tucker sell very substantial and attractive furniture. This sign you speak of contains good sound advice regarding the furniture period of a young man's life. It is undoubtedly good advice and when the one giving it follows it, as Mr. Tucker is preparing to do, we will have to consider him as being at least sincere."

MINING NEWS

Mr. A. H. Reed who has been the general superintendent of the Kentucky Fluor Spar Co., has resigned the position, to take effect June 1st. Mr. Reed is an efficient mining expert and his does not propose to leave the district but rather to engage in a more general endeavor to carry out certain plans for the benefit and building up of the ore producing section of Western Kentucky.

Incidentally Mr. Reed informs us that he will establish an office in Marion, and enter upon the regular practice of his profession, that of Mining Engineering.

Mr. Reed has promised to write a series of articles on the outlook and needs of this district and also calling attention to the fact that fluor spar mining and the development of the Western Kentucky Lead, Zinc and Fluor Spar district has not received proper attention at the hands of Kentucky law makers the mining of Fluor Spar particularly having been absolutely overlooked. For the present at least the Kentucky Fluor Spar Co., will not employ a successor to Mr. Reed and the work that he has in hand will be looked after by president C. S. Nunn in person.

Mr. Miller, president of the Commodore Mining Co., had the new Ingersoll-Sargent drill and air compressing plant hauled out to the Commodore mines this week and set on concrete foundations. A Toast:

—By—
MISS CARRIE MOORE

A Merry Hour That Leaves no Heartache.

The following toast was delivered by Miss Carrie Moore at the annual meeting of the Marion Graded School graduates recently held in the new auditorium of the school building:

I am certain that it is not necessary to assure you of the very great pleasure it affords me to meet the members of our Alumni Association. You must know as well as I had told you a thousand times that it is not human nature to be less than delighted with the inimitable hospitality of this society and your hearty greeting.

Indeed, I hope that my frankness will be excused when I say that my complete enjoyment is alloyed at this moment only by the chills and quakes of speechmaking. Even in this predicament, I find consolation in the thought that the ordeal will soon be over; and I have received a sort of peaceful composure by steeling myself against my own embarrassment and your disappointment. On the occasions of these annual gatherings we are made to feel and know that the ties of friendship formed in our youth are being welded by links of gold that time only serves to increase in strength and brightness.

As I understand my situation, I am to respond to the toast, "A Merry Hour That Leaves no Heartache."

You know as I know that this is a merry hour; and I know, though you may not, that it leaves no heartache. What the sun is to nature, what the stars are to night, what God is to the stricken heart which knows how to lean upon Him, are the members of this alumni to each other. Here we are, cheerful and contented, and all nature smiles with us; after our meeting the air will seem more balmy, the sky more clear, the ground will have a brighter green, the trees a richer foliage, the flowers a more fragrant smell, and the sun, moon and stars will all appear more beautiful, as the very presence of those who are here carry sunshine wherever they go. But, we might ask, what is it, or who is it that bestows upon us this happiness? From whence comes the enjoyment and pleasure of this meeting?

First, we owe this to Marion Graded School. The school whose floors we have tramped through the long and weary process of obtaining a Common School Diploma or completing the High School; whose desks we have bowed upon when the black despair of arithmetic and algebra seemed to open to receive us; whose blackboard we have defaced with the triple disgrace of a mistranslated Latin exercise; whose stately old locust trees have furnished cool and peaceful shades when the hot sun of trouble and distress shone heavily upon us; to the old school, I say, let us turn to give our first thanks for this pleasant evening.

However far we may go on the rough and stormy ocean of life, the rays of this magnificent lighthouse bless us continually with their light of glory and of beauty. And when we pull into the haven, under their steady glow, as we have done to night, we rejoice to find that a greater radiance than ever before is soon to be sent out over wind and wave, for with the enterprise and determination for which our townsmen are noted, they have added to the force and vigor of this already strong power by an expansion which we must commend. This institution of learning has that quality of work which gives to the world new ideas, which recognizes no set rules or principles, but is a law unto itself, and rejoices in its own originality; which never follows the old beaten tract, but strikes out for a new course; which has no fears of public opinion, nor leans upon public favors; it always leads, but never follows, (as can be proved by Corydon, Morgansfield, and even my own dear "Hoptown").

Next, I think, in the catalogue of reasons for our good cheer, should come the privilege of greeting our old friends. Each one we see calls back some pleasant memory, until the climax is reached with Mr. Evans, whose broad smile reminds us of happy days departed, and who adds to our glee by declaring that his other countenance which does not consist of this broad smile and which is not used on pleasant occasions has been forever discarded. And last, but not least, for the unbounded happiness of this occasion, I turn to the younger members of our society. Your generosity is unlimited; your hospitality is unfathomable; your fidelity is absolute. And the desire of your pure and honest hearts to advance the cause of education and cement more firmly this alumni in the happy bonds of fellowship and protection is to be praised and upheld by us who have strayed farther away.

Allow me to say this much to you from my own experience, that no matter what a wealth of show and ornament you may see, no matter what a galaxy of stars and brilliancies you may encounter, you will take part in none happier, none more joyous and none more sparkling than the alumni meeting of M. G. S. These meetings are to us what flavor is to the fruit, or fragrance to the flowers. They do not develop strength or determine character so much as they measure interior richness and true worth, and as the blossom cannot tell what becomes of the odor which is wafted away from it by every wind, so no one knows the influence of these annual gatherings where our friendship is allied in happiness and pleasure. If we work upon marble, it will perish, if we work upon brass, time will efface it; if we rear temples, they will fall and crumble into dust; but if we work upon immortal minds, if we imbue them with high principles, we engrave on these tables something that time can not efface; such is the work of this school and of this principle who has so wisely set apart one night in each year for these happy occasions, where we meet in a reunion of old friends who have become young again; a renewal of past pledges with the school and its teachers; a forming of new acquaintances, happy and gay; a time of cheer, of joy, of friendliness; truly, "A Merry Hour That Leaves no Heartache."

Saved by Dynamite.

Sometimes, a flaming city is saved by dynamiting a space that the fire can't cross. Sometimes, a cough hangs on so long you feel as if nothing but dynamite would cure it. Z. T. Gray, of Calhoun, Ga., writes: "My wife had a very aggravated cough, which kept her awake nights. Two physicians could not help her; so she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which eased her cough, gave her sleep, and finally cured her." HOW TO WRITE

A Scientific Love Story, by Sherwin Cody.

Love between the sexes is composed of two distinct elements, affection and passion. Affection is that harmony of feeling which may exist between friends of the same sex, relatives, etc. It is the basis of personal friendship. I know of no better illustration of what it is than the theory of astrologers, who say that persons who like each other were born so that at the moment of birth the moon of one was in the same place in the heavens as the sun was in the other, or the like, and hence the cells of their beings crystallized to the same rhythmic vibrations of light. So whenever the two come together their inner beings respond to each other like two violins perfectly in tune.

Passion is purely nervous and physical, and in itself is entirely impersonal. It is the fire that intensifies all the faculties, raising from the commonplace level of friendship to the plane of great deeds and grand sacrifices. Its flame burns in all of us in greater or less degree. Those in whom it is strong and steady are in a chronic state of being in love, and the restraint and control of this natural force is an important item to consider in judging life.

A third element, however, must be considered, and that is the ruling emotion in each life. Pride may dominate, and that will overcome love. The inner conflict between pride and love may be terrible in the extreme, and if pride conquers, hate may take the place of love because of the suffering the conflict has caused. The result is always determined by the ruling emotion, which may be love itself, or something else, and is sure to be different in different persons. Real affection is always mutual; but in one it may be intensified by passion and in the other it may not be; and in one it may already be preoccupied and in the other it may not be.

If you know these fundamental elements in any love plot, you can determine absolutely what the outcome will be, almost as a mathematical calculation.

In writing a love story you must remember that you can tell the story of only one of the parties, that there must be a conflict, and the result of it must radically change the life course of the principal character of the story.

Here is a simple plot. An attractive, intelligent girl is brought up in an atmosphere of love and passion, but as she is wanting in the physical element of passion she fails to experience the enthrallment of love of which she hears so much. She has many men friends, some of whom woo her passionately; but when they become passionate she gets disgusted at their weakness and dislikes them. Finally one man whom she likes as a friend and who does not oppress her with his passion, offers his hand and is accepted because she feels that she must marry some one to please her family. Time passes and she and her husband become the best of friends. Then enters a friend of his when he is away, and unwittingly, even honestly, falls desperately in love with the wife. Her husband, learning the truth, is about to leave her. In her danger she turns to him as her friend and savior, and realizes how association has knit their hearts, and that friendship and affection have in the hour of danger become themselves a passion. She has learned the meaning of a love as tender and deep as she had ever dreamed of.

RIGHT TIME TO CURE CATARRH

Haynes & Taylor Guarantee Hyomel Will Cure If Used Now.

The early summer, when the weather becomes warm and settled, is the best time of the whole year to treat catarrhal troubles with the expectation of complete and lasting relief.

Everyone who has catarrh of the head and throat should know how foolish it is to try and cure it by drugging the stomach.

Until recently your physician would have said that the only way to cure catarrh would be by a change of climate, but now with Hyomel you can carry a health-giving climate in your purse or vest pocket, and by breathing it a few minutes four times a day, soon cure yourself.

Everyone who has catarrh, or even a tendency to catarrh, should use Hyomel now, for the benefit will be gained twice as quickly and the disease thoroughly eradicated from the system.

The complete Hyomel outfit costs but one dollar, and includes a neat pocket inhaler, a medicine dropper and sufficient Hyomel for several weeks' treatment. The inhaler lasts a lifetime, and if more Hyomel is needed, extra bottles can be obtained for 50 cents.

In Marion there are scores of well known people who have been cured of catarrh by Hyomel. If it does not cure you, Haynes & Taylor will return your money. This is the strongest evidence they can offer as to their faith in the remedy.

22 Richest Men.

Henry Clews has made an estimate of the wealth of a number of the millionaire capitalists of the United States, in which he places John D. Rockefeller first and Andrew Carnegie second, says the New York American. This is the table he has formulated:

John D. Rockefeller	$400,000,000
Andrew Carnegie	$115,000,000
leaving	given away.
leaving	250,000,000
William Waldorf Astor	chiefly in real estate 200,000,000
John Jacob Astor	175,000,000
Gould family, of which
George J. Gould's	personal fortune represents $35,000,000
Marshall Field	100,000,000
Blair estate	100,000,000
W. K. Vanderbilt	80,000,000
Russell Sage	80,000,000
D. O. Mills	75,000,000
William Rockefeller	75,000,000
J. P. Morgan	60,000,000
James J. Hill	60,000,000
Henry H. Rogers	50,000,000
Henry Phipps	45,000,000

James Stillman	15,000,000
George F. Baker	15,000,000

Mr. Clews admits that his list is by no means complete, but says that it undoubtedly contains the names of the very richest men in the country. Prominent among the well known capitalists who are not included are the members of the so-called Rock Island "crowd"—William H. and J. H. Moore and D. G. Reid and W. H. Leeds, nor does he name Senator W. A. Clark, Henry C. Frick, John W. Gates, Norman B. Heam, the William C. Whitney estate, P. A. B. Widener, the younger, the younger Vanderbilts, Mrs. Hetty Green nor any of the other notably rich women of the country.

Terrific Race With Death.

"Death was fast approaching," writes Ralph F. Fernandez, of Tampa, Fla., describing his fearful race with death, "as a result of liver trouble and heart disease, which had robbed me of sleep and of all interest in life. I had tried many different doctors and several medicines, but got no benefit until I began to use Electric Bitters. So wonderful was their effect, that in three days I felt like a new man, and today I am cured of all my troubles." Guaranteed at R. F. Haynes' drug store; price 50c.

More Double Track

Writing in The Raleigh Post of yesterday, Mr. J. C. Catlett foresees the time when trains running between Greensboro and Charlotte will dash through a continuous city, and says that the next ninety-nine-year lease of the North Carolina Railroad by the Southern will call for four tracks instead of one. So, indeed, it will be; and this reminds us of the agreeable statement in the Washington correspondence of The Post of yesterday that a force of hands will tomorrow begin grading on the double track between Greensboro and High Point. It is a continuing wonder how the Southern Railway contrives to handle so many trains, passenger and freight, on a single track between Greensboro and Charlotte with so few accidents, and a continuing cause of congratulation to the alert and clear-headed train dispatchers. The Southern is a great system, the most effective developer of the South, and it has not undertaken its double-tracking policy too early. Think of the volume of the traffic fifty even twenty-five years from now.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C.—"The protected hogs must take their hind feet out of the trough," "I demand the most favored nation treatment for ourselves in the construction of the Panama canal," "For American manufacturers to sell to foreigners at a profit, at prices from one third to one half lower than they sell the same goods at home is not a square deal to the folks at home." With these characteristic and forceful, homely phrases President Roosevelt has launched a new issue, at least a new one for the Republican party, and there are strong indications that he will gain the support of the American people and put some hide-bound ultra protectionists to confusion.

In his message to congress, last December, the president wrote, "I will have something to say on the tariff question later on," but prominent members of his party who were permitted to read a proof of the message before it was made public persuaded him to strike out the sentence. He yielded to their request, but then endeavored to secure some sort of an agreement from the leaders that provision would be made for a readjustment of the Dingley schedules later on. They had urged that agitation of the subject in advance would unsettle business, so he called them to the White House and asked them what they thought of calling congress in extra session this spring for the purpose of readjusting the tariff schedules. The stand-patters claimed that it would require time for investigation and that the session had better be called in the fall. To this the president agreed and October was fixed as the date of the special session. The president supposed, of course, that congress would make provision for an investigation of the existing schedules during the summer, and the senate did, but the stand-patters who control the house failed to do so and adjourned in fancied security, supposing that they had defeated the president. But they counted without their host.

When the Panama Canal Commission came to purchase the large quantities of supplies and machinery needed for that enterprise they found that the prices they would have to pay to American manufacturers were far in excess of those charged by the same concerns to foreigners. They could even buy American made steel rails, of which they needed a large quantity to relay and double track the Panama railway, for $20 a ton abroad, all charges paid to London, including about $6 freight, while the price asked in New York was $33 a ton. The prices for structural steel showed a similar variation, the American price being about 50 per cent greater. It was estimated that it would require about $30,000,000 worth of structural steel, at the domestic price, for the canal, which amount could be bought abroad for $20,000,000. Two ships which were needed would cost $1,000,000 if purchased in this country, $750,000 if purchased abroad and so on. Had the French company been constructing the canal, American manufacturers would gladly have accorded them the full foreign discount, as they would have any other foreign nation but they proposed to hold up their own government for the full domestic price, and the undertaking being a most expensive one at best, the president determined that the supplies should be bought from the cheapest bidders whether American or foreign. He demanded the most "favored nation treatment for ourselves." This means, of course, that the American manufacturers will be favored, their prices being as good, and that they will get the business, but that they will have to bid as low to the United States government as they would have to were the French or British government doing the buying.

The president's decision has thrown the stand-patters into a frenzy. Their protected constituents are enraged because they cannot sell at top prices to the United States, but more so because the president's decision will prove an impressive object lesson to the American people, will demonstrate that it is not an occasional surplus which the American manufacturers, and trusts, are selling abroad at lower prices than the domestic, but that they are continuously supplying the foreign trade, and at a profit, at prices far below those they charge "the folks at home," as the president put it. The stand-patters believe the president has won a victory over them and that, backed by the great mass of the Republican party, he will compel them to readjust those tariff schedules which changed conditions have made too high.

The president is himself gratified at the turn the affair has taken. He believes in all the protection necessary to make up the difference between the wages of American workmen and the wages of poorer paid foreign workmen, but in not one penny more. He has proved to his own satisfaction that there are some schedules of the Dingley tariff which American industries have outgrown and which are now being used to foster monopolies and extort exorbitant prices from American consumers. He relies on the American people to realize that this is just one more step in the progress of his campaign against the great corporations and in favor of the square deal for every American citizen. He has, to use his own homely phrases, no objection to "good fat protected hogs," but he is violently opposed to "those protected hogs who have grown so fat that they are now able to swing around and get their hind feet in the trough while they prevent their weaker fellows from getting their share of the meal," and he counts on the cordial support of the people for this new issue.

Getting Data to Take Up Question With Congress And Nation.

ST. LOUIS, May 23.—A special from Washington to a morning paper says: President Roosevelt has taken up the immigration question and is preparing to call it to the attention of congress and the country. The president believes that one of the most serious problems now confronting the American people is how to deal with the many undesirable immigrants. During the fiscal year, which ends June 30, all immigration records will be broken. A million acreage passengers will have arrived in the United States.

TORNADO IN TEXAS

FT. WORTH, Texas, May 23.—Reports from Mineral Springs, fifty miles west of here, say that a tornado which struck the town has completely wiped it out, killing many people.

The same storm struck Ft. Worth, wrecked buildings, tore the St. James colored church to pieces and killed John Young, Texas Pacific railroad dispatcher, who was caught in the wreck of the passenger station.

A summary of last night's storm indicates that the property damage in the city will total at least $20,000.

Six inches of rain fell in Grayson county. Twenty thousand acres are under water and several bridges on the Denver Road are washed away. The storm was severe all over Northern Texas.

JUST OUT

"Every man is entitled to a square deal."—PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

My Own Story

By Caleb Powers

This book is a calm, dispassionate account, from the standpoint of the man most interested, of the conditions in Kentucky leading to the assassination of William Goebel, and of Powers' indictment and conviction on the charge of complicity in his murder.

It covers his youth in the mountains of Kentucky, the conventions of 1899, the election, the shooting of Goebel, the arrest, the three trials and the prison life.

For dramatic situations, human interest and political importance, the case of Caleb Powers is unequalled.

Thirty-nine applicants took the teachers' examination here Friday and Saturday. If these applicants are in the least superstitious they are feeling very uneasy as to the outcome of their work, for if thirteen is unlucky would not thirty-nine be thrice as so?

There will be no more smut or smoot in the United States Senate if the desire of the American Baptist Publication Society avails anything. In a resolution passed at a meeting in St. Louis on May 22nd the society denounces Mormonism and asks that Smoot be expelled from the Senate.

The James and Younger families belong in the criminal aristocracy of the frontier and show no signs of dying out. But they have changed their habits, and in the new generation have gone into law and politics. One of Jesse James' sons has hung out his attorney's shingles somewhere in Kentucky and one of the youngsters is United States marshal in the prairie dog district of Lee's summit, Mo.—Evansville Courier.

What is the cause of the present strike in Chicago? Is it possible that they wish to draw the attention of the public from Marion with its rapid growth and vigorous upbuilding? A great city like Chicago should not be jealous of her sister cities, but jealousy seems to be characteristic of northern cities, else why did Minneapolis forbid the reading of the bible in public schools when it had no better reason than that the Bible spoke so much of St. Paul and said nothing of Minneapolis.

We announced last week that the Home Telephone company would probably absorb the Independent and improve our local system. Definite announcement has since been made verifying the rumor which we had heard. We have several times given voice to the proposed change, as well as the desire of the people of this section for improved service. With the announcement of the absorption of the People's Independent company comes the cheering news that the Home Telephone company will install the latest pattern automatic switchboard and improve the service generally. We voice the sentiment of the entire people, we believe, that it is vastly better to encourage this industry, already established, than to have forced an improvement by inviting competition and carrying the burden of two exchange systems. The improved service can't come too soon to suit our commercial and mining interests.

The farmers of Crittenden county should organize an institute similar to the Livingston county organization. This is essential to their advancement along agricultural lines, and will assure the quickest and surest development of our county. Space forbids giving a full and complete account this week of the work of Livingston county, as evidenced at a meeting of the Farmers' club, held at Salem May 18. This club holds regular meetings at such different points throughout the county as may be selected from time to time. Subjects are assigned the different members, and after an address is made, or essay read, the entire membership takes part in a general discussion of the subject. We expect to refer to this subject frequently in the future with the hope of encouraging organization. Our columns are open to full and free discussion of the subject. By all means organize and keep up with the progress of the world at large, and Livingston county in particular.

We publish this week an article concerning the proposed joint fair for Crittenden and Livingston counties, to be held at Salem this fall, if preparations can be made in time; or if not, it is proposed to effect a strong permanent organization, and by having ample time in which to prepare the exhibits success will be assured for the fair of 1906. Nothing is more beneficial to a county than a fair association, alive to all of the interests of a community, and striving to effect an improvement each season over the preceding year. A yearly gathering of the kind proposed, conducted on right principles and with the sole object of inculcating into the minds of the people the newest and best ideas for advancing agricultural, commercial, mining, horticultural and allied interests. Everybody should join in making the movement a success, and the first essential feature is to centralize all forces. Adapt an idea and surround it with every plan conceivable to assure success. Write the chairman of the two committees and offer your suggestions; above all advise them at once whether you are for or against the attempt to hold the fair.

Democratic Nominee.

Thos H. Cochran, whose announcement as a candidate to represent Crittenden and Livingston counties in the state legislature has stood at the head of our editorial column for some time, was chosen unanimously as the nominee of the Democratic party at the delegate convention held at Salem May 20.

Mr. Cochran is one of the foremost citizens and business men of this city and an estimable gentleman. The Democrats have made a good choice in his selection as their nominee.

A Suicide.

John Ramage, formerly of Kelsey, Ky., committed suicide at the Commercial hotel in Paducah last Thursday afternoon by taking an overdose of morphine. He was discovered in an unconscious condition about 10 o'clock and a doctor was summoned but the drug had been taken too long for anything to be done. He was taken to the city hospital in an unconscious state from which he never aroused.

Mr. Ramage was forty years of age. He was a carpenter by trade and had been at work on the new court house at Wickliffe. His body was sent to his former home at Kelsey Friday.—Chronicle.

Miss Lucy Morgan and Charles A. McGee, of Knoxville, Tenn., formerly of Princeton, were married Wednesday at the bride's home in Princeton. Miss Morgan was popular here and at Fredonia where she often visited.

THE BISHOP'S VISIT.

An Audience Limited Only
To the Church's Capacity.

Wednesday evening at the Cumberland Presbyterian church the services of the Episcopal church were given. Bishop Woodcock, the newly elected diocesan of Kentucky, preached the sermon. The large and beautiful church was filled with an attentive audience. The sacrament of baptism was administered privately during the afternoon and publicly in the evening by the archdeacon, the Rev. M. M. Benton, of Louisville.

There was but one expression as to the bishop's sermon, that of gratitude and thankfulness for the lessons conveyed. The sermon was severely practical and yet so charmingly expressed that the hard truths were received as he evidently intended they should be with the resolve in most cases of reforming.

St. Paul's church quartette choir from Henderson assisted in this service and the grand old chants and glories were brought out with so much feeling and reverence that the evening was a most delightful and inspiring one.

At half past six on Thursday morning the celebration of the holy communion was had, Bishop Woodcock being the celebrant, assisted by Archdeacon Benton.

The bishop's visit to Marion will long be remembered.

IN SISTER COUNTY

SMALLPOX SITUATION IS SERIOUS

State Board of Health About To Proceed Against Muhlenberg.

The Kentucky state board of health will probably issue a proclamation declaring Muhlenberg county under quarantine. Dr. Joseph M. Mathews, president of the board, is in receipt of a communication from Secretary J. N. McCormack, of Bowling Green, stating that the county court of Muhlenberg had refused to co-operate with the county board of health to stamp out smallpox which has existed in the county for some time and that as a result the health board of that county had resigned in a body. There is nothing for the state board of health to do now except to declare a quarantine against Muhlenberg county, and President Mathews and Secretary McCormack will prepare the proclamation at once unless the county court advises the secretary at once that it will co-operate with the county board of health. Dr. Mathews hopes the authorities will take steps to prevent the quarantine as it would be a very expensive proceeding for the county.

The next meeting will be held next Tuesday, 3 p. m., at the residence of Mrs. Mott. All of the ladies of the church are requested to attend.

CRAZY NEGRO'S ACT

KILLED AN OFFICER AND WOUNDED SEVEN MEN.

OWENSBORO, Ky., May 23.—Bob Shaw, a negro who was supposed to have been insane, shot and killed Deputy Sheriff William C. The house was set on fire last night, and Shaw was shot and killed as he ran out.

HUMAN OIL CAN

Jim Mason, a young white man about twenty years of age, who is confined in the county jail on a charge of horse stealing, attempted to commit suicide in his cell by swallowing a pint of coal oil, says the Todd County Times. His fellow prisoners gave the alarm, and as soon as the unfortunate young man's predicament was discovered Dr. Bruce was called and gave him attention. He proved to be a very sick man, but his condition is not now critical.

UP FOR LIFE.

CADIZ, Ky., May 23.—Wash Galther, colored, who murdered Taylor Vester, near Caledonia, was sentenced to life imprisonment this morning. The jury was out only a half hour.

TEN DAYS OF GRACE

GIVEN MUHLENBERG BY STATE BOARD.

The Kentucky state board of health has granted an extension of ten days' time to the authorities of Muhlenberg county to take the proper steps to control the spread of smallpox in that county. The state board of health and T. J. Sparks, county judge of Muhlenberg county, held a conference last night, which lasted for two hours, and the agreement was reached to give the county authorities more time.

The health officers of Muhlenberg county through J. G. Hannon, has issued a statement in which they explain that it was not their fault that the regulations were not carried out. The people of the county, they say, are opposed to complying with the law requiring vaccination and the fiscal court is opposed to appropriating money for the purpose of assisting the local health authorities.

If the county authorities do not comply with the regulations of the state board within ten days quarantine of the entire county will be at once declared and rigidly enforced.

ONLY ONE WAY

To Stop the Wholesale Plundering of Railroads.

The railroad companies admit that they violate the law by granting rebates, but set up the claim that if they did not do it they would lose their share of the traffic. It is a very singular plea. It is not half as just as the one that a man steals because he is hungry, or because his wife and children are suffering for the necessities of life. "We violate the laws because somebody else does," say the railroad companies. Suppose that every criminal would set up the same excuse for the commission of crime. And ordinary criminals have a better right to make that plea in palliation for their crime than the trusts and corporations have. If, as they admit, the railroad managers are so dishonest that one must violate the law because another does, if there is no way to restrain them except to turn the whole matter over to them, and permit them to pool their earnings so that one thief can watch the other thieves, it is about time to abolish the whole system of private ownership and for the Government to take charge of the lines of transportation. The railroad companies make out the worst kind of a case against themselves. They admit that there are enough law-breakers among them to demoralize the whole system.—Buzz Saw Morgan in Tom Watson's Magazine for May.

"THE MAN IN GRAY."

Beautiful Three Color Print.

As its offering of respect to the Confederate Veterans Reunion, the Henderson Route is distributing a beautiful three color print, entitled "The Man in Gray," which is receiving widespread admiration throughout the entire south.

The picture, which is printed from an extra fine etching, reproduced from an original drawing by Mr. Robert M. Hooe, the celebrated artist of the Courier-Journal, is 16x22 inches, and is printed on fine enameled paper, sufficiently heavy for use unframed, but equally suitable for framing.

It is executed in the three cardinal colors of the confederacy—gray, blue and red—on a white background, and has been rightly termed by critics "a gem."

They are enclosed in strawboard mailing tubes for safe transmission by mail, thus avoiding any possibility of breakage and insuring safe delivery.

Send five (red) stamps to L. J. Irwin, Louisville, Ky., for this beautiful reproduction, and after you receive it, whether you are from the north or out of the south, you will be an enthusiastic admirer of the "Hero of the Gray."

"BUSINESS OPENINGS IN THE NORTHWEST."

It seems to me that the man with a small capital can find no better opportunity for investment and for the establishment of a small business than in some one of the many growing towns of the northwest. The Great Northern Railway issues a booklet "Business Openings," which adequately and comprehensively describes the needs of the many towns along its line and contains a detailed list of the business openings afforded the man with limited means as well as the big investor. I do not know of a section of the country which offers such limitless opportunities to the man who is content to live in a new country. The fact that in nearly every state in the northwest there is an available supply for almost every form of manufacture, offers to the manufacturer a chance to operate close to the supply of raw material. It

LEWIS & CLARK EXPOSITION.

It is a noteworthy fact that the Lewis and Clark exposition is the first world's fair to be held west of the Rocky Mountains which has secured the aid of the government.

And it is also surprising what an interest is manifested in the exposition by the people of the east. They see in the exposition an opportunity to visit the western country at a greatly reduced expenditure of money, and not only see the exposition itself, but view the wonders of our western scenery, and witness the great resources of the north-west and the opportunities afforded. The Great Northern Railway passenger department has been flooded with inquiries as to the exposition, and it augurs well for a big travel through the northwest this year.

Postal Card Duns are Lawful

Judge Taylor, in the United States district court at Cleveland, Ohio, has established a precedent in the manner of treating postal communications. Attorney Fritz Rudin, of Elyria, had written a client on a postal card and had asked for the payment of a debt said to have been owing for legal services. The card was directed to J. D. Gown, who turned it over to the Federal authorities. Rudin was arrested for sending a threatening and defamatory communication through the mails. Through his attorney, Judge W. W. Boynton, he demurred the indictment, and the court sustained the demurrer, discharging Rudin. The court held that a request for the payment of a debt, if properly worded and in a respectful tone, should be admitted to the mails.

Tourist Cars Popular.

The idea that an inferior class of people patronize the tourist sleepers is an error. On many trips only the best class of travelers are found. They are merely men and women of good sense who would rather travel to California in this manner and save a snug sum of money to be used elsewhere. It is beginning to be understood that it is by no means necessary for the traveler to spend a large sum of money in order to enjoy a trip to the Pacific coast.

If you cross the continent in one of the tourist sleepers of the Union Pacific you will enjoy your trip and save considerable money. Inquire of J. H. LOTHROP, G. A. 903 Olive st., St. Louis, Mo.

"SWITCHED" THEM

How an Author "Worked" the Editors

Frederick Upham Adams, the author of a series of articles on the Constitution now running in Tom Watson's Magazine, tells a good story at the expense of a certain New York author, illustrating how far a shrewd writer may go astray in guessing what a given magazine editor will accept or reject. It seems that this author, by some rare mischance, found himself short of ready cash and troubled somewhat by insistent grocers and butchers. His practice is, in such a rare emergency, to sit down and write a number of stories for the magazines, rush them off, and get his pay as quickly as possible.

In this instance the author wrote six stories in six weeks, and submitted one to each of six different magazines, sending to each the manuscript he felt sure was in harmony with the policy of that publication. In less than three weeks from the time the last story was sent out the whole lot were returned with the usual stereotyped regrets. As soon as two of them had been returned the author "switched" them, and sent the manuscripts out on their journey again. In less than four weeks after this had been done four of the stories had been accepted. And the upshot of it all was that the six stories were taken by the six different magazines, but not in the order in which the author had originally allotted them.

TRAVELERS BECOME COSTIVE!

with them. It is a pleasant liquid laxative and a certain cure for sick headache, train sickness and all stomach trouble. Your druggist sells it in 50 Cent and One Dollar bottles.

W. P. Galt, of Little Rock, Ark., Traveling Salesman for the Smith-Triplett Traveling Co., writes: "While traveling through western Arkansas, in February last, I had a severe attack of Acute Indigestion. There was no doctor at hand, and I was suffering terribly. Your Pepsin which at that time was unknown to me, I took two doses and was relieved at once, and I want to say now that when I am on the road I am never without a bottle of Syrup Pepsin in my grip. I consider it as essential as my order book, and can put nothing equal to it for Stomach Trouble and Constipation."

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

LESSON IX, SECOND QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, MAY 28

Text of the Lesson, John 14: 17-20. Memory Verses, 25-27—Golden Text, 1 Cor. xv, 3-4—Commentary Prepared by Rev. O. M. Stevens.

(Copyright, 1905, by American Press Association.) The great mystery of a trial is over, the powers of darkness under the outward form of zeal for God have prevailed, and Jesus is delivered into the hands of cruel men to be crucified. Suddenly the devil is the victor, as in the death of Abel and Zacharias (Matt. xxiii, 35) and such a host of others, but in reference to the redeemed of the Lord as well as to the Lord Jesus Himself, it is only what the hand and counsel of God determined before to be done (Acts iv, 28). Our Lord said to Pilate, "Thou couldst have no power at all against Me except it were given thee from above" and concerning all His sufferings He said, "The cup which My Father hath given Me, shall I not drink it?" (John xiv, 11, xviii, 11.)

There is no perfect peace to us as followers of Christ till we also learn this great secret of not seeing any one and envious but God only. In Pilate's words, "Thou art the King," "Behold your King" (xxv, 1-11), we may each have the spirit saying to us, "See no man, but Jesus only and let Him be your King, your Lord and Master as well as your Saviour." In the cry of the Jews, "We have no king but one" (verse 15) they deliberately rejected Christ as King and accepted the world rulers, under whom they still suffer and will suffer until they see the Lord Jesus coming in glory and receive Him as their Messiah (Matt. xxiii, 35, Isa. xlv, 1).

Bearing His cross, He went forth (verse 17), and there is no other way for His followers (Matt. xvi, 24, 25, Heb. xii, 12-14). "Unto Him without the camp" is the only way for the true disciple, for the camp of His professed followers is almost wholly given up to formally united and fellowship with this present evil world, all of which is as empty as a skull. Oh, the indescribable agony summed up in the three words "They crucified Him" (verse 18). Since the Spirit thus sums it up and does not enlarge upon it, should we do otherwise? But think of it and picture it as we may, let us face it as we look upon Him to say, "For me. For me, in my stand bearing my cross, wounded for my transgressions, bruised for my iniquities, that I by His stripes might be healed."

See the time on His cross in the three languages of the then known world, "Jesus of Nazareth, the King of the Jews" for all the world shall yet see Him as such, and Jerusalem shall be the throne of the Lord, and all the nations shall be gathered unto it to the name of the Lord in Jerusalem. See the literal fulfillment of Scripture in verses 21, 22, and compare the prediction in Ps. xvi, 10 and be assured that all prophecies are as just as history, founded in His time. Just which has been in the one key is that which shall be. We have in this lesson three of the seven sayings of our Lord from the cross. The first three of the seven sayings of our Lord from the cross, and all that is needed in between. These words to His mother and to John are His second word and include all the care to temporal things which His mother might need.

If we are living in and doing His will we are to Him as mother and sister and brother (Matt. xii, 46, 49), and the more He gave to Mary His mother, is nothing to us. Is it not all that He did in John xiv, 22, Matt. vi, 13, Phil. ii, 10, and similar sayings? We might feel like saying, "Oh, how gladly I would minister to His mother or to His sister, but my life is as common as dust." Forgetting His blood, His precious blood of Matt. xvi, 13, and the great truth that we are always ministering to Him, and that not a day or an hour goes by in His kingdom but we are ministering (Matt. ix, 13). One of His precious words to us is, "I have chosen you to stand before Him to serve Him, and that ye should minister unto Him and offer sacrifice." May we ever worship the Lord our God and serve Him only? His second word in our lesson, "I thirst" (verse 28), fulfilled another Scripture, Ps. lxxi, 21, but suggests more than three natural thirsts, even as when He sat by the well in Samaria and asked the woman for a drink. The scriptural thirst that it was not meat and drink for the body which were upmost in His mind (John iv, 31, 34). When His Spirit tells us we shall think more of righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Ghost for ourselves and others than any merely physical necessities (Rom. xiv, 17).

His third word in our lesson, which is His last word to the last of the seven, takes us back to then, ii, 13, when He finished the restoration work of that time, and onward to Rev. xxi, 3, when He shall have finished the new earth of that time, for, whether in creation or restoration or redemption, He is the same Jehovah, Jesus (Rev. xxi, 3, 6). His finished work on the cross when seen and accepted gives perfect rest of soul to the truly penitent sinner, for the moment that this is seen there is of necessity a resting from all one's own efforts to obtain life, and the soul sees and rests in Him only (Heb. iv, 9). What a wonderful and glorious salvation it is, that, oh, how easily to God, who so loved that He gave, and to the Son of God, who loved me and gave Himself for me, suffering even to be forsaken of the Father: "My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?" that we might never be forsaken. How shall we thank Him?

Louisville

In the Heart of the Famous Blue Grass of Kentucky.

If you have never visited the metropolis of Kentucky, Louisville, the gateway to the South, you may never have another opportunity as favorable as the one offered during the

Confederate Veterans' Reunion

June 14-16, 1905

Which, it is anticipated, will attract a hundred thousand and victory from all parts of the country, but especially from the new and bustling South and West.

Rates of approximately two cents a mile for the round trip will be in effect from most all points in the United States on account of the Reunion, and Kentucky is prepared to entertain royally her honored guests at that time.

It may not be amiss to remark that the "Man in Gray" will hold the center of the limelight during this period and he is justly entitled to this honor, but the favorable rate will also attract a horde of sight-seers, pleasure-seekers and investors to Louisville, the town that ships more carload freight than any two other cities in the South. This freight mention is merely incidental and to acquaint you with the importance and magnitude of our business interests.

The Purpose of this Article

Is more to interest you in Kentucky's most popular railroad, the Henderson route—more properly termed the St. Louis-Louisville Comfort Line—as a solid comfort passenger line than as a common carrier of freight, although we appreciate, and will continue to do so, the freight that moves our way.

Our passenger service between St. Louis, Evansville and Louisville compares favorably with any competitor, and one feature of it, we feel satisfied, is much superior—that is the "invariably on time" feature, which, you will agree with us, is a very important factor. Our equipment, consisting of Reclining Chair Cars, seats free, Pullman Drawing-rooms, Sleepers, vestibule High-back Seat Coaches and Parlor Cars through without change, is as fine and comfortable as any operated in or out of Kentucky—bar none—and we earnestly solicit your patronage.

In purchasing your ticket to Louisville for the Confederate Reunion, or on any trip which takes you between St. Louis, Evansville and Louisville, declare the Henderson Route in and insist on your ticket reading our way.

Only First Offense.

One offense is often sufficient to break up a life-time of friendship. What is the matter, Mr. So-and-so? I ask. "How many one done you an injury? You look angry enough to make somebody suffer," "Well, I should say so," you answer. "You know my old friend, John Newman. We have been for years the closest of associates. We grew up together as boys. We have had many business dealings in common. Some months ago he came to me and said, 'Harry, I have a nice herd of cattle out in western Kansas. I want you to help me weather the winter through.' I lent him $500. He had not only lost every cent of it, but as far as I can make out he lied to me about the cattle. He never owned a horn or a hoof. He squandered my money in Wild street" "Is that so? What are you going to do?" "Nothing," you answer. "What can I do except patiently leave him alone?" Yes, you can do that if you will. But let me, friend, ask John Newman ever told me before? I grant that he was not truthful. I grant that he did not do right. But are you going to let that one act, that one sin, blot out the five hundred good deeds he has done in the past and the five hundred good deeds he would do for you in the future if you would only forgive him this once and give him another chance?

Because a gun misses fire once or twice or three shall the hunter throw it aside as useless? Yet that is the way some of us deal with those who have done us wrong. Suppose you were in the position of a very dear friend of some years ago. He took a young man into his employ and made him the right hand man in the business. He confided to him his most treasured secrets and purposes. One day that young man, under great temptation, betrayed my friend. He tried to start a rival business and to entice away all his clerks and steal his employer's agencies. He failed. What would you do under such conditions? For the one error, the one mistake would you blight your eyes to many years of faithful service? "Let not the sin go down upon your wrath." You had a right to be angry for a little while. In one sense, you had a right to strike back. But do not bear that grudge any longer. "Forget and forgive" is the meaning of the Pauline commandment.

Let me illustrate. Why are you prejudiced against the church of the Lord Jesus Christ? You are not bad. You believe in Jesus as your Saviour. You were reared in a Christian home. Some of the best and happiest recollections of your life are of the Sunday school and of the church of which your mother was a member. "I know it," you answer. "I never think of the church of my youth but with moistened eyes and tremulous lips. I would not be the woman I am today had I not had that past church training. Had not about ten years ago we had an awful church row. They say the worst row on earth are church rows, and I believe it. The people in our church divided themselves into factions. My husband was a trustee. They charged him with dishonesty, and no more honest man ever lived than he. The minister might have stepped the difficulty, but he did not. We left the church. We took our letters. The result? My husband and I have never been inside of a church since. We are not infidels, however. We pray, we read the Bible, but we simply have no use for church people."

Turned Against Church.
When I speak to you thus I find no talking at random. There are hundred and thousands of just such people as you who have turned their backs upon the church. God's mightiest agency for doing good, merely because they have had an unfortunate experience with some of its members. The other day I was talking to a noble man. He gives away hundreds and thousands of dollars each year. Within his large benevolent establishment he runs a school that his girl clerks and his boy clerks who have to earn a living at the time they should be in the schoolroom should not be entirely deprived of a education. He gives hundreds of dollars annually for the temperance cause. No man who is trying to do right and is true on his back ever apprehended him for help in vain. Yet that man with all his vast influence, has not for years darkened church doors. Years ago there was a church difficulty which revolved about him and his family. Sad, and, infinitely sad, that he should refuse to be one with the church because of a bitter grudge he held against some church members who did not treat him right! For, in spite of all he has done, I confidently assert that the seed he had sown would have multiplied a thousandfold instead of, as now, producing only sixtyfold and has been working inside of the church of God instead of outside. That man for years has held aloof from the church because he cherished resentment against some of its members. He disobeyed the injunction of my text, "Let not the sun go down upon your wrath."

Drop Your Hatreds.

But there is yet another reason why you should drop all your hatreds and animosities as kindlings into the great conflagration of the setting sun. You may be purified by the divine fires of trouble. But no man was ever able to make a brother better and truer and purer by hatred and malice and wrath and contempt. You have tried it in the past. You have piled up your scorching remarks in great heaps. You have rolled down great avalanches of denunciation. You have exhausted your whole vocabulary and ransomed through hundreds of dictionary pages to find vile and sulphurous enough to depict your withering contempt. But did it do a good? Have you made your brother any more my better? Have you made him truer or a better man? Have you helped your relationship with him in the least? For fifteen years you have walked down the street and met him on an average at least once a week. You stare at him. What good are you accomplishing by such bitter actions? Absolutely none. Absolutely no good results for yourself. Absolutely no good results for him.

Notice For Crime.

What is the purpose hidden in your heart of hating up that grudge or malice or hatred against your neighbor or your past friend? One of the first moves of a prosecuting attorney in trying a criminal is to find a motive for the crime. The district attorney says to himself, "Here is murder committed. Who would be benefited by the death of this victim?" He always looks for a motive to trace crime. When Senator Ireland Stanford's wife died in Honolulu the news was flashed over the land that she had been murdered with strychnine. Post mortem examination proved that poison had been absorbed by the deceased. But when the motive of the supposed cause was sought none could be found. If Mrs. Stanford was murdered the criminal has gone free because no detective can find a motive to trace on the murderer. Every crime, as a rule, has a motive. What motive have you for the sinist hatred against your neighbor? Because you hate him or

We should renounce all our hatreds and bitternesses and animosities toward our brothers because these hatreds are arising on spiritual lives as well as theirs. You can denounce your neighbor for doing wrong. You can hate him or despise him. Oh, yes, But when you do, be well aware that your own spiritual life is gradually chipping away. Week by week, month by month, year by year, on account of that bitterness you have been lifting higher and higher and higher an unsurmountable wall between you and God. Brother, sister, it is high time you tore down that obstructing wall. It is high time you consumed that hatred in the conflagration of the setting sun. It is destroying your spiritual hopes. There is no doubt about it—you cannot love your God with all your soul and mind and strength and hate your neighbor at the same time.

Forgiveness of Others.

Can you not forgive others as you would have Christ forgive you? Not many years ago, wrote a famous writer, a missionary was preaching to a crowd of natives in faroff India. Suddenly a Native who stood behind him lifted a huge stick to crush in the missionary's skull, but happily the blow fell short. The crowd would have torn this would be murderer to pieces, but the speaker commanded them to stop. "Kill him! Kill him!" cried the multitude. "No," said the missionary, "I will not allow you to kill him." Then, turning to the affrighted man, he said: "Brother, my religion commands me to love my enemies and to do good to those who injure me. I forgive you, brother. But remember that though you escaped punishment at my hands you cannot escape punishment at the hands of God unless you repent of your sin." Men, women, can you forgive us this missionary forgave? Christ bids you to forgive. Can you not feel, as the missionary taught, that when you are hating your brother you are hating Christ? There is no escape from eternal punishment unless you repent of your sin and forgive those who have injured you. See, the sun is set! It is now the twilight hour. Hear ye not the divine commandment: "Ye hurt ye and sin not. Let not the sun go down upon your wrath!"

In closing I would draw a picture of the evening hour which we used to spend in our childhood days and find in it a symbol of our evening relationship with God. The breakfast was nearly always a hurried meal. The children had to get off to school. The father had to rush away to business. The mother had no servants in those days, and all the housework had to be done with her own hands. Many cares came with their imminent demands and said, "Tend to me; tend to me now." Then when the lunch hour rolled around the dining room table was set only for two or three. Most of the family were away. But in the evening hour father came home from the store. Their mother had her work finished. She had put on her clean dress. The boys were home from school or work, and the girls were all ready for the games and innocent pleasures of the evening. "How did you get on, father?" mother asked. "Oh," said he, "things were kind of topsy turvy at the store. It did seem, as though I had to work and find fault an awful lot. But after all, mother, I think the boys at the store will improve if I only continue to teach them right." Then mother told her experiences of the day. The children had all their happy stories to repeat. Then one of the girls began to tell how some one had treated her badly, and she said, "Mother, I am just as mad as I can be." "There, there, there, child," said your mother; "stop that. You have no right to bring home disagreeable things and feel unhappy toward any one. Let us leave all our cares and worries and bitterness on our front doorstep. This is family night. Let us all love every body and love one another and be happy."

15. Love One Another.

Love one another and be happy you did. No one who ever came in touch with mother's sweet smile could ever do anything but love. Thus God wants us to come to him in the twilight hour. Employer, you have scolded that clerk enough because he broke the glass counter; check your anger. Business man, many hours ago you denounced that business associate who did you wrong. He knows that you will not allow him to be unjust again. Let the matter drop. Schoolgirl, no need of telling the mean things that you know about your classmate. Forget and forgive. Remember this is the evening hour. The twilight has grown darker and darker. The myriads of stars, as torches in the heavens, have been lighted. "Come!" says Christ. "Come and sit by my side, my child. Leave all of the injustices of the past behind. Remember, son, that as you have been misrepresented, so have I. Remember, daughter, as others have ill used you, so have they ill used your Christ. Forget and forgive the trespasses of others, as I am blotting out your sins in my blood. This is the twilight hour. Come and sit and talk with me. I am your friend and Saviour, Jesus." "Let not the sun go down upon your wrath" [Copyright, 1925, by Louis Klopsch.]

FARMERSVILLE.

Situated in the fertile valley of the Donelson is the beautiful village of Farmersville. Nature has lavished her resources in making this village one of the prettiest places in the world.

The ground level, covered with grass, forest trees and shady groves are scattered promiscuously about with a beautiful tree planted here and there by the hand of man. Pretty cottage homes adorn the landscape, among the most conspicuous is that of Mr. Harvey Brown built on the plans of modern architecture that would do credit to any city. Two mail routes, the rural free delivery and the star route furnish mail each day.

Three general stores supply the people with goods. One blacksmith shop where the farmers can get their work done at all times. One veterinary surgeon to attend to the ailments of live stock. Two physicians to keep the corporeal system in repair. One doctor of divinity to look after the interest of the inner man, and there is room for one or two more. Several skilled carpenters are kept busy as the town is gradually developing. One church of the Baptist denomination is in a prosperous condition under the pastorate of Rev. Blackburn, of Marion, with prayer meeting and Sunday school held regularly. One school up to date in educational facilities under the management of Miss Aldora Cartwright, an able and efficient teacher.
